WE WILL REMEMBER THEM . . .

Two local war veterans pause briefly to pay their respects to The Fallen on the eve of Remembrance Day. They are (left to right) W. S. Macgregor, 78, a war veteran of the South African war, and Thom Thorp, 73, who fought in World War I. Remembrance Day service will be conducted in front of the Cenotaph in The City Park at 11 a.m. Monday. Similar ceremonies will be held throughout the valley, although the times vary.

GOVT TO TAKE ACTION

May Amend Jobless Act To Meet Unemployment

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker has described the unemployment "situation as 'not generally serious' while pledging his government will not sit idly by as 'long as the human betterment of a single Canadian is adversely affected.'"

"For those that are unemployed, the first responsibility will be to ensure that, to the greatest degree possible, no individual shall suffer."

In this connection some amendments to the Unemployment Insurance Act are being considered, he said without elaborating.

Mr. Diefenbaker said unemployment as yet is far below that of 1954 and 1955 when considered as a percentage of the total working force. In 1954 and 1955—the last peak unemployment period—the percentage amounted to 6.9 and went as high as 9.5 per cent of the labor force.

He quoted these figures only hours after qualified government informants generally agreed Canadian unemployment this winter will hit its highest peak since the Second World War.

Mr. Diefenbaker spoke in the CBC's free-time political series The Nation's Business.

"It seems clear," he said, "that the strategy of the high commission of the Liberal party is to spread fear and gloom and preach doom and to pretend that where unemployment exists this Progressive Conservative government is to blame."

The levelling off is due in part to international conditions, he said.

DOCTOR CLAIMS: Early Retirement Major Cause Of Increase In Mental Health

MONTREAL (CP)—Society's attitude toward elderly persons is responsible for an increase in patients requiring mental treatment, the regional research conference of the American Psychiatric Association was told.

Mental institutions are facing a needless, but growing burden because of a trend to compulsory retirement at younger ages, said Dr. Robert H. Felix, director of the National Institute of Mental Health, Bethesda, Md.

"Pension should be based on ability, not age," he said. "We extended life spans, but put elderly persons on the shelf first at 70, then 65, and now many are seeking retirement at 60."

"There has been a large increase in mental cases from this age group, all because we force them to just 'eat and set' before they're ready to."

Local Operators Will Decide On 1/2¢ Cut In Gas

It will be up to individual service stations whether or not motorists will benefit from the cut of one-half cent a gallon on standard gasoline prices.

Major oil companies, including Imperial, Shell and EA yesterday announced the drop in price of one cent to one-half cent per gallon in lower grade gasoline.

The new prices became effective at midnight Friday. All top-grade gasoline prices remain unchanged.

Local service-station operators contacted this morning had received no official notification of the reduction in price. No. 2 gas sells for 44½ cents locally.

An Imperial spokesman in the east said reductions were to meet competitive conditions in the industry, while a Shell spokesman attributed the cut to lower freight costs. Present wholesale prices average from 20 to 25 cents a gallon according to region.

Ike Will Receive Medical Checkup

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower will go to Walter Reed Army hospital Sunday for what the White House described as an annual routine checkup.

Mrs. Anne Wheaton, associate press secretary, said he will go to the hospital in the afternoon or evening and stay overnight, returning to the White House Monday afternoon.

SIGN LANGUAGE ORDERED

Husband, Wife Together, But —

CHICAGO (AP)—There's no domestic chatter today in the three-room household of Taras Tokarewicz, 30, and his wife, Mary, 44.

And if there is ANY communication, a judge has ordered it be conducted in sign language.

That was the main rule set down Friday by Judge Elmer N. Holmgren of Superior Court in a hearing of Mrs. Tokarewicz's divorce suit, charging cruelty.

Both parties refused to give up the apartment while the suit is pending. The judge held they both had the right to stay—if they followed certain rules of behavior.

SPLIT DOWN MIDDLE

Under Holmgren's order, rooms, closets and facilities in the small flat are to be split down the middle and used separately.

Holmgren's other rules are:

1. She gets the one bedroom; he gets the sofa.
2. They share the flat's only closet in the bedroom, but he can't use it while she's in the bedroom.
3. The bath will be used on a first-come, first-served basis.
4. The kitchen is to be used in shifts.

Divided equally are the refrigerator, medicine chest, kitchen cabinet and dishes.

HUGE US AIRLINER DOWN IN PACIFIC

First Satellite Is Coming Down

LONDON (Reuters) — Russia's first earth satellite, a 24-inch sphere launched Oct. 4, is beginning to come down, the Soviet news agency Tass said today.

It said the Sputnik, whose maximum distance from the earth was at first 630 miles, now has a maximum distance of just over 500 miles and is completing its circuits of the earth more quickly.

The second satellite, fired Nov. 3 with a dog as passenger, is decreasing its circuit time to 82.2 seconds a day but its maximum height is little changed.

RADAR TELESCOPES

When Sputnik II's launching was announced, Soviet scientists discussed the possibility of returning the dog alive to earth.

But, in Moscow today, this possibility was no longer mentioned. There was speculation Russian might notify Western scientists before any attempt to catapult the dog back to earth. As Western nations have excellent radar telescopes, it would help Russian scientists to have their findings on the ejection of a heavy object from the Sputnik.

"MYSTERY" OBJECTS

LONDON (Reuters) — Sputnik watchers in Norway, The Netherlands and Australia reported seeing "mystery" objects today.

Unusual radio signals also were heard.

A bright object that looked bigger than a star zipped over Oslo at great speed on a southwest course.

Offices Of 3 Aldermen, Mayor Vacant Dec. 31

Terms of four members of the Kelowna City Council will be expiring this year, but none has indicated yet if he intends to seek re-election.

Mayor J. J. Ladd and Aldermen R. F. Parkinson, R. D. Knox and J. Treadgold are expected to keep silent on their plans until the next public meeting of the council, which will not be until a week from Monday.

(There will be no weekly meeting this coming Monday night due to Remembrance Day falling on Monday.)

Balance of the council—Aldermen Arthur Jackson, Ernie Winter and Donald Horton—still have a year to go on their two-year terms.

Polling day, as set out by the new Municipal Act of B.C. will be December 12, from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Nomination day will be December 2, from 10 a.m. to 12 noon.

Former News Group President Dies

HALIFAX (CP)—Andrew W. Keith, chairman of the board of the Halifax Herald Ltd. and a former president of the Canadian Daily Newspaper Association, died in hospital here early today.

This year's list of electors, now in the process of being printed in booklet form, includes 4,037 names. The process of 197 over the total on the list in 1956. Several more renters have put their names on the list and several divisions of property have meant more ratepayers on the electors' list.

Chest Campaign Is Short $2,200

Total collections Friday for Kelowna's Community Chest was $19,800 of its $22,000 quota. Final figures anticipated is $20,000 or a little over.

This failure to meet the needs of the 15 agencies participating in Chest means that in allocations being made to the 15 organizations, it is necessary to dip into reserves, which gradually are being depleted.

Quota last year was $22,500, with $20,600 realized. This year's quota was lowered with the express purpose of attaining the $22,000 goal. Unsuccessful, however, it is once again apparent that donations continue to drop each year; this in spite of the city's increasing population and sound economy.

THREE ZONES OVER TOP

Three out of the 28 zones have gone over the top: Poplar Point, a section of Bankhead and an area in the vicinity of North St. in the south-west corner of the city. Records last year show that there were 2,700 donors, with 50 per cent of these giving less than $1.00. This means that the average donation of citizens is quite small. Last year, too, 18 agencies participated in Community Chest.

While it is understood that Kelowna people feel they are deluged with appeals, what is not understood is that this multiplicity of appeals would drop if Community Chest got more—and thus was able to include a greater number of agencies within itself.

Those in charge of Community Chest, as well as canvassers, are deeply grateful to those who have given, and are pleased to report that there will be enough to carry

Coast Police Probe Death

VANCOUVER (CP)—Detectives today were investigating the hotel-room death of a woman whose body bore the marks of a recent and severe beating.

The woman appeared to have been dead at least 15 hours when her body was found early today, police said.

They are holding a man for questioning in connection with the death.

Detectives were called to a skid road hotel by a doctor who had been asked to examine the woman by the man they are holding.

Mandarin Oranges Aplenty This Year

TOKYO (AP)—It may be an orange Christmas for Canada.

Monday, 65,700 boxes of Japanese mandarin oranges bound for Canadian markets are scheduled to leave Yokohama aboard the U.S. freighter Justin Bakke.

The remaining 2,600,000 boxes on order are scheduled to follow soon to be in time for Christmas.

The order was reported to be the largest received from Canada since the end of the war.

COURIER WILL NOT PUBLISH MONDAY

With the rest of Canada, Kelowna will pause in its business and economic rush to honor its war dead.

Special Remembrance Day services will be held in some churches, Monday, while in others, the memorial services will be tomorrow.

City's official Remembrance Day service outdoors will be at City Park Cenotaph, beginning shortly before 11 a.m., the anniversary time of the signing of the armistice back in 1918. Rutland's outdoors ceremony will be at the Rutland Cenotaph at 2 p.m.

In keeping with the occasion, the Courier will not publish Monday. Daily publications will resume Tuesday, with last minute international, national and local and district happenings.

King Winter Lashes Out At Ontario

44 Persons Are Aboard

BULLETIN

HONOLULU (AP)—A U.S. air force plane reported sighting two yellow cylindrical objects today 80 miles southwest of the last position of a missing Pan American Airways Clipper with 44 persons aboard.

The air force said the objects "could be parts of life rafts."

The Clipper, "Romance of The Skies," disappeared during the night in mid-Pacific without a word of warning from her radio. The plane was en route from San Francisco to Honolulu.

One of the greatest air-sea searches in history resulted. At least 29 planes, 14 surface vessels and two submarines criss-crossed the search area, dividing 65,000 square miles of ocean into a vast checkerboard.

HONOLULU (AP)—Forty-four persons were missing in the middle of the Pacific Ocean today after their plane, bound from San Francisco to Hawaii, disappeared from the skies.

A Pan American Airways spokesman said the plane's fuel could have lasted no longer than 3 a.m. (PST) and the plane is presumed down in the Pacific.

A search armada swept the sky and the sea for trace of the stratospheric or for life rafts.

The four-engine clipper, "Romance of The Skies," was midway across the 2,400-mile expanse, unbroken by island, when it was heard from last. That was at 5:04 PST, when the plane's captain, Gordon H. Brown, radioed a routine position report.

Not another word was heard from the plane, which carried 36 passengers and a crew of eight.

At 8 a.m. today 12 search planes criss-crossed the ocean area and eight more headed into the zone.

The Boeing Stratocruiser could float indefinitely if it alighted without damage to her hull.

Noting that the hour had passed when the plane could have remained aloft, Robert B. Murray, Jr., executive vice-president of Pan American, told reporters: "The aircraft must be presumed to be down somewhere in the Pacific. An extensive air-sea rescue search including military, civilian and Pan American facilities now is under way. The crew is experienced and well trained and we are still hopeful."

There was a flurry of excitement when the crew of a military air transport plane, en route to San Francisco, spotted lights on the sea in the search area. It was later assumed that these were from a surface ship.

SUBS IN HUNT

The U.S. coast guard sent five vessels into the search zone. They were joined by two submarines, four merchant ships, the liner Matsonia, a tanker and other craft.

Brown's last message said he was 1,028 miles east of Honolulu. Among the passengers were H. Lee Clark, 36, Dow Chemical Company executive, his wife, their two small sons, and two little adopted Japanese-American daughters. Stationed in Tokyo, they had been on vacation.

Also aboard were Robert Alexander, 38, of Los Altos, Calif., Pan American co-pilot, his wife, and their son and a daughter.

Other passengers included a state department official Thomas McGrail, 52, a former French air ace Robert L. Lamason, 41, of New York.

A sister ship to the Romance, the "Sovereign of the Skies," ditched in mid-Pacific a year ago and all 31 aboard were picked up by the coast guard weather ship Pontchartrain. Coincidentally the Sovereign's number was 90954, the Romance is 90944.

Hoping against hope, the coast guard had searchlights turned on at Pearl Harbor in case the plane had power trouble making the compass and radio inoperative.

Brown, a father of five, is a 15-year Pan American veteran. The 2,400-mile San Francisco-Honolulu trip is considered one of the safest runs in the world.

Hundreds of commercial and military planes cross and recross between the mainland and Hawaii every month, and only four persons have lost their lives in peacetime accidents between the two points.

Halifax Gets First Pipeline Shipment

HALIFAX (CP)—The first of 16 shiploads of pipe for the Trans-Canada Pipe Line to be routed through Halifax this winter will arrive about Nov. 23, port officials announced today.

The pipe, arriving from England aboard the freighter Skauvann, will be shipped from here by rail to pipe line construction sites.

World's First Space Explorer Whips Up Storm Of Controversy Among Dog Lovers

By IVY HAYDEN

The world's first space explorer has whipped up a storm of controversy in Kelowna.

Lanka, the doggie in the satellite circling the earth over 1,000 miles in space is shocking Kelownians, or "making them sick" if a Daily Courier survey is any indication.

We asked Kelowna women to comment, and most of them agreed that they were shocked . . . but not so much because a dog was being used in the experiment as because it was possible to launch the baby moon successfully in the first place.

"I'm certainly not observing two minute's silence," a housewife said emphatically. While she thought that perhaps insect life might have served the purpose, and that use of a dog "wasn't quite the right thing to do," she remarked that without tests on animals the human race would be pretty unhealthy.

"I own a dog and I love him," another woman said. But noted: "something has to be sacrificed to better humanity through science," and that the canine in the half-ton doghouse "wasn't like a house pet."

The contention was backed up by veterinary surgeon A. S. Clerke, who told The Courier that the dog had been raised in a laboratory and was "conditioned" to his present experience. "I hardly think he's suffering," Dr. Clerke added.

According to latest reports, the spaceborne Siberian Husky's breathing, blood pressure and heart action are normal.

"He's receiving better treatment than most stray dogs," a high school student observed, and there are probably a number of scientists who would be glad to trade places with him."

The Kelowna branch of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals will send a letter of protest to the Russian Embassy.

"The fact that a dog is whirling around in outer space through no choice of its own and will almost certainly come to a slow or sudden death just makes the average animal lover feel sick," Kelowna SPCA president Christopher Reid said.

"However, if eventually human life is to benefit by this perhaps one should not worry too much. The Kelowna branch of the SPCA is sending a strongly worded protest to the Russian Embassy in Ottawa. This will doubtless end up in the wastepaper basket. At the same time, we feel that the protest should be made."

There are many animal lovers who have no intention of making an issue of the alleged "cruelty." Their reaction was summed up by one man whose remarks implied a warning.

"The dog has no idea of his destiny and he probably doesn't care . . . we're not that lucky."

REMEMBRANCE DAY

These hearts were woven of human joys and cares. Washed marvelously with sorrow, swift to mirth. The years had given them kindness. Dawn was theirs. And sunset, and the colors of the earth. These had seen movement, and heard music; known

Slumber and waking; loved; gone proudly friended; Felt the quick stir of wonder; sat alone; Touched flowers and furs and cheeks. All this is ended. There are waters blown by changing winds to laughter And lit by the rich skies, all day. And after Frost with a gesture, stays the waves that dance And wandering loveliness. He leaves a white Unbroken glory, a gathered radiance, A width, a shining peace, under the night.

HISTORIC OCCASION

Diefenbaker to Lead Capital Remembrance Day Services

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
For the first time in history Canadian Remembrance Day services Monday will be led by a prime minister, himself a war veteran.

John Diefenbaker, wounded overseas during service with the 196th Battalion in the First World War, will join Governor-General Massey in Confederation Square in Ottawa on the 39th anniversary of the end of that conflict. Services at Ottawa will be typical of those at cenotaphs all over the country for those who died in two world wars and the Korean conflict.

Mrs. Fred MacFarlane, 70, of Truro, N.S., will join the Ottawa service as a representative of Canadian mothers. She lost her first husband at Vimy Ridge in the First World War. Three sons died in the Second World War. David L. Burgess, president, will represent the Canadian Legion.

ACROSS THE LAND
Memorial university students in St. John's, Nfld., will march to that city's services with veterans and government officials. Smaller outposts settlements without memorials will hold services at special shrines or plots set aside.

In Halifax, the Canadian Legion will hold its usual parade to the cenotaph. No religious ceremonies will be held there. They were banned three years ago after some servicemen objected to attending services conducted by leaders of other faiths.

A "festival of remembrance" however was held Nov. 5 in Halifax. Forum for the second year under Legion sponsorship. This year, a Catholic archbishop took part. A protestant churchman officiated last year.

Ceremonies in New Brunswick have an international aspect as Canadian and United States servicemen take part along the Maine border. Nov. 11 is a general holiday in New Brunswick.

SUNDAY SERVICES
Religious services will be held Sunday in many centres across the land, particularly in Quebec. Lieutenant-Governor Gaspard Fautoux of Quebec leads religious, provincial and civic dignitaries in Sunday ceremonies at 3 p.m. The 8th Militia Group under Brig. Paul Triquet, VC, will parade.

Banks and federal offices will be closed Monday but business offices and stores generally will remain open, observing the traditional two minutes' silence at 11 a.m. In Montreal, Dominion Square will be the centre of services.

At Winnipeg, 1,200 veterans and servicemen will parade, as the lieutenant-governor and the premier of the province lay wreaths at the cenotaph.

More than 5,000 are expected at the Monday morning services in downtown Vancouver. The Air Force Officers' Association will stage its annual day patrol and cadets will form a guard of honor in ceremonies across the harbor in North Vancouver.

A service and a wreath-placing ceremony will be conducted at the cenotaph in Regina. Lieutenant-Governor W. J. Patterson will place a wreath on behalf of the people of Saskatchewan.

Stores, banks, schools, city, government and business offices in Regina will close.

OTTAWA REPORT

Pork Barrel Patronage

OTTAWA—The parable of the mote and the beam was vividly illustrated in Parliament when the Liberal opposition tried to pillory the Conservative government for firing a crown employee charged with actively partisan political work.

Precedent and the specific terms of the civil service act endorse the common-sense rule that persons appointed to the public payroll should not be active political workers.

In the days of the full flowering of pork barrel patronage, the public payroll was the scene of considerable "firing and hiring" whenever there was a change of government. Crown employees were sacked for no other reason but to make jobs for supporters of the new government who wanted to dip their fingers into the gravy bowl of the taxpayers' money.

When the present government came into power in June, its leader John Diefenbaker set a tone of the statesmanlike rather than the ward-heeler attitude to the public payroll. Some of his cabinet ministers publicly declared that they would not "fire and hire" just to put Conservative voters on the payroll at the expense of any loyal and able civil servants who had properly exercised their democratic right at the ballot boxes but happened to support "the other party."

CANADA'S NEW LOOK
This was probably the first time in our electoral history when a change of government was not followed by a substantial change in the payroll footed by the taxpayers. This commendable and proper innovation was not always popular with some Conservative supporters; but by risking this displeasure, Prime Minister Diefenbaker has now set a desirable new national pattern which ensures continuity in our civil service.

The uproar in Parliament was provided by Liberal Lionel Chevrier protesting against the sacking of a crown employee who had actively worked for a Liberal candidate in the election. Transport Minister George Hees routed and ridiculed ex-Transport Minister Chevrier when he quoted a letter written by C. D. Howe, cadets will form a guard of honor when he was transport minister, his assistant out of their jobs.

saying that he had fired an employee for that very offence.

Thus Transport Minister Hees scored heavily off his would-be Liberal critic, when he showed that previous Liberal governments had themselves done exactly what they were now trying to criticize.

OVERLOOKED P.E.I. CASE
The Liberal critics in Parliament did not mention one case which has caused widespread comment here. This concerned F. Martin, a former clerk with the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, who for several years before the election was employed as clerical assistant on the personal staff of Cabinet Minister and Senator Ross Macdonald.

Martin left Ottawa during the election and went to his native P.E.I. There he is reported to have campaigned hard and long on behalf of Liberal candidates, even speaking over the local radio station in their support.

Although on the public payroll, Martin was not a permanent civil servant. But having worked for the required three years as aide to a minister, he was entitled to demand the privilege of permanent status; it is therefore reasonable to expect that he would be paid by the taxpayers while he indulges in partisan political campaign work was justifiably resented by many of his P.E.I. who wrote and telegraphed their protests to Ottawa.

Martin's boss, Senator Macdonald, being a former common speaker, should be fully aware of the impropriety of a crown employee acting in this manner. But the voters took their own retribution in this case, for by their votes they threw the senator and his assistant out of their jobs.

Faith In Kelowna's Future Results In Aluminum Manufacturing Plant

Belief in the future of Kelowna, most an obsession to operate some manner of manufacturing plant in Kelowna.

INDUSTRIAL BACKGROUND

When he met his future father-in-law, it wasn't long before the two of them were planning along the same line. Mr. Little, too, has a background of industrial experience, having spent 16 years as works manager with the John Deere company and some time with Commonwealth Electric Co. as general superintendent.

Their plans came to a head last April and three acres were purchased, having in mind eventual expansion to 12,000 square feet of plant space by next year. At the present time, the partners are operating with 1,250 square feet of building, which is of frame construction with aluminum sheeting.

At the present time, aluminum is the main metal used, and at the moment mainly for television antennas. Future plans call for the provision of a drop forge for steel products. Steel then would be used in conjunction with aluminum.

FURNITURE AND SIDING

While TV antennas is the main production now, the small factory is geared for turning out aluminum garden furniture and siding and roofing.

Mr. Horn said the partners have a production method for their antenna that puts them in a competitive position and with the lower operating costs, they find themselves in an even better spot.

Twelve various types of antenna are being turned out now and eventually all 36 of the basic types will be manufactured.

Most popular on the market is the do-it-yourself kit, which includes mast, lead-in wire, mountings and screws, and instructions. They find the Okanagan is only a small market so far, with Alberta getting the bulk of production at the present time. An outlet also has been arranged for sales in Vancouver.

SON OF J. A. HORN

Mr. Horn, who is 29, and has a one-year-old daughter, is the son of former city alderman J. H. Horn, and the late Mrs. Olga Horn.

His father-in-law, Mr. Little, is 54, and formerly resided at Welland, Ont. He and his wife have become fond of Kelowna and are firmly rooted here.

While viewers in Kelowna, Vernon and Penticton are able to get a fairly good picture from the Okanagan station, CHBC-TV, without an antenna at all, it has been mentioned on panels of TV technicians that a better picture is procured with rabbit ears, and a still better one with a proper outdoors antenna.

it takes a GIANT to keep Canada on the go

There are only 5,500 new car dealers in Canada to serve more than 3,500,000 car-owning people. Yet these comparatively few dealers perform a giant selling job in moving more than 400,000 new cars a year worth well over ... $1,100,000,000!

There are 101 daily newspapers in Canada. Every day they roll out more than 4,000,000 copies to do a herculean job of helping to sell Canada's automobiles from COAST to COAST.

Car dealers and daily newspapers have much in common. Both are upstanding local citizens vitally interested in local affairs. Back of almost every civic drive you'll find the local car dealer supporting it with all his weight. And right beside him, with equally ardent support, is his daily newspaper.

Car dealers, like others, have learned that the daily newspaper puts plenty of weight behind an advertiser's sales message, too. That's why newspapers, each year, carry the biggest share of automotive advertising. Use this giant to put the weight behind your advertising.

Break Away From Charming But Wilful Mother Young Man Advised

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I spent most of my impressionable growing-up years with my family in Vermont—where I was taught a very high regard for one's moral responsibilities to family, God and neighbor.

But she visited often, and when I finished college I went to live with her. Mother is one of the most generous, loving persons in the world; can't do enough for me or the family—even going to extremes.

She is beautiful, trim and often described as the epitome of femininity. However, she is also completely dependent upon others, adolescent, and set in her way of doing things. So help me, she can sway anyone to her convictions. If you go against her, she has a way of pressing you down until out of sheer desire to keep peace, you submit.

WON'T MARRY WHEN SHE CAN

Soon after I got here, I learned that mother is in love with a married man, and regulates her life to his routine completely. When I've spoken up about this, ever so slightly, in the past 10 years, she has said she would love to meet someone else, if she could.

About six months ago I introduced her to our department head, a widower very well liked and respected. Two months after that met, he proposed marriage, even though mother saw him only when the married man was taking care of his respectability. I had warned Mr. X not to rush into things; and he had pleaded with mother not to lead him on. Now she has decided not to marry him, but won't tell him—which makes me ashamed.

I am sick to death of being companion, helpmeet, guardian and diplomat in mother's behalf. Yet I love her. I would like to scream out against all that disgusts me; but I keep it in. I would like to get away by myself, as far as possible. But I feel responsible for mother. Am I?

ABLE PEOPLE ARE RESPONSIBLE

DEAR G.G.: You say you feel responsible for your mother, when you mean, really, that you are concerned about her.

Actually we are responsible only for those persons whom we can help—whom we are able to help. We are responsible when we are a free moral agent in a situation, when we have the ability to pay the costs of reclamation or accomplishment, and the trustworthiness to see the thing through.

Experience indicates that you CAN'T help your mother in this sense; that her willfulness is too much for your concern. You can't lead her out of the wilderness. Rather she sweeps you along with her, into the confusion she has become accustomed to.

In dealing with your mother, you are confused to begin with, of course. Because there is a confusion between (1) your ingrained ideal image of your mother, as you fancied her to be, when growing up in a part from her; and (2) the real woman you find her to be. No doubt you are profoundly attached, unconsciously, to the stranger (to you) that she is—when your values, and hers, come into collision.

So what are you to do?

FACES TEXT OF CHARACTER

Well, that depends upon the texture of your character. If you aren't tied to her apron strings, by unconscious infantile dependency upon the ideal mother-image, you ought to break away from this situation, I think.

After all, your mother was no worse off, I take it, in other years when you weren't trying to save her from herself. And she probably will continue to do things her way, whether you go or stay. And indeed it may be that she has lived in New York City (while you were growing up in Vermont), primarily because it is a city of individualists, morally speaking. "Everyone for himself," more or less.

If you can't be reasonably yourself in her company; can't be true to your conscience and feelings at the same time; can't be outspoken in defense of values you cherish—but must be mute and passive as the price of peace—then you aren't good for her. And her society isn't good for you. So why not establish your own domicile and live apart from her, amiably.—M.H.

Violent Sports Shirts Unsuitable For Men Says Former Actor Cobb

NEW YORK (AP)—Men who complain about their wives' new gaudy sport dresses might well take a look at themselves, says John Cobb, a young man who has violent ideas about current men's styles.

"The man in the grey flannel suit with the ivy league shoulders should grow up," says Cobb, whose shoulders are more the football type. "The limp look is all right for college boys, but after graduation men should get out of the ivy league and into the big league. They should take their clothes problems on their own shoulders—and if they haven't strained by law," he said.

Old Sunday School Law May Not Be So Ridiculous After All

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. enacted, that all the laws enacted (CP)—Some of those ridiculous old laws still on the provincial statutes may not be so silly after all.

Magistrate George L. Cassidy made it clear he intends to find out. He postponed for one week a case against police commissioner A. W. (Pete) Mark, charged with failing to attend church on a recent Sunday.

The charge is laid under an English Sunday Observance Act written in 1672 and adopted by British Columbia 90 years ago. Mr. Mark agreed to be charged by John MacLean a reporter for the Columbian, New Westminster's daily newspaper. Mr. Mark said he was willing to go along with the case "in order to point up the ridiculousness resulting from the retention of these old laws."

But in police court Mr. MacLean asked permission to withdraw the charge. He'd had some second thoughts on the matter. He wanted it withdrawn because there was not sufficient evidence.

"Surely that is for me to decide," Mr. Cassidy said. "I didn't realize the serious implications," Mr. MacLean continued. He didn't want Mr. Mark to have a blemish on his record. Mr. Cassidy said one of Mr. MacLean's newspaper articles said conviction of Mr. Mark would be under the criminal code. You realize now this is not correct."

"Yes, sir."

"And you also said conviction would prevent his crossing the international boundary. Do you know now that that's not correct?"

"No, sir."

The magistrate took the application for withdrawal under advisement. The act under which Mr. Mark is charged begins this way: "For the better observance and keeping holy the Lord's day, commonly called Sunday; be it

Impress Of Violent TV Programs

BY GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, PH.D.

On Sunday 40,000,000 children in the United States go to Sunday school. Most of them are under 10 years of age. They have about an hour of religious schooling a week. It is where they learn about love and kindness and the preciousness of every human life.

GUN AND DAGGER RULE
On TV most of the programs these children view show scenes of horror and violence, a murder or more a minute. The gun and dagger rule.

True, the villain usually gets his due. The children who are watching and listening, however, dwell on this fact for only a few moments. By contrast, they have had fifteen or thirty minutes of murder, even enjoying the courage of the villain.

SUNDAY TV
The average youngster who goes to Sunday school may spend time before going viewing TV, often causing him to be late. He hurries home for a few more hours of TV. Every day of the next week, he has many more hours of such.

What he views so avidly on TV is far more glamorous, exciting and attractive to him than the good he is exposed to at Sunday school, at day school or at home. Hour for hour, TV wins by many times. How much more does it win by its attractiveness, minute for minute, episode for episode?

Does any parent believe the good her child is exposed to has no effect on him? Of course not! Here, then, can we suppose the evil of violence on TV can do no harm?

ALL IMPRESSIONS COUNT
If we just use the sense we were born with, we would know very well that all impressions on the heart and mind of the child count, that the more intense these impressions, the more sure they are to stick and come forth later in feelings, attitudes and actions.

Years ago the great pioneer psychologist, William James, said, "No impression without expression," meaning that every impression is sure to come forth in some way, at some later time. As a life member of the American Psychological Association, I'm not aware that psychologists have come forth with conclusive proof that James' assertion was not valid.

Yes, I know, as you do, that an occasional psychologist or psychiatrist has said that only children who are mentally or emotionally disturbed will be harmed by violence on the air. But those who say this offer no proof of their silly assertion. One wonders why more careful and objective scientists haven't challenged them.

Remembrance Day Service Planned At Peachland

PEACHLAND—Remembrance Day services will be held at the cenotaph on Monday, November 11, under the auspices of Branch 69 Canadian Legion, Peachland, and will be conducted by the Rev. Norman of the United Church. Veterans are asked to assemble at the municipal hall at 10:15 to parade to the cenotaph. The Girl Guides, Brownies and Scouts will also parade.

The first meeting of the Peachland Ladies' Curling Club, for the 1957-58 season was held in the library with a fair number in attendance. The vice-president, Mrs. Archie Flintoff was in the chair.

Several pertinent subjects were discussed including ways and means of raising money to send a rink to Kimberley for the zone play-down early in the New Year. Evening curling was also discussed at length.

Rinks for the pre-Christmas draw were chosen, the skips being Mrs. Fred Topham Jr.; Mrs. Verne Cousins; Mrs. George Topham and Mrs. M. Ferguson. Curling is to commence soon after November 15.

Mrs. Steve Scammell was named to replace Mrs. Ernie Rosner on the executive committee.

Hefty Hips Bar To Tapered Style

The tapered line of the current fashion silhouette makes hefty hips an obvious figure problem. Specific calisthenics to tone the hip controlling muscles is the solution. But first, let's answer the query as to why the weight goes largely to hips.

Let's tend to accumulate in the least disturbed spots. In this sedentary age, hips bear the brunt of the lack of exercise. And, of course, as excess pounds are added, the tendency is to pad the hip area.

"What about glands?" you may inquire. If you tend to accumulate an amount of fat in a hurry and gained it all in the hip region, it would be wise to check with the doctor, preferably a gland specialist. The doctor can help you to help yourself.

Walking uphill glims the big hip muscles. You can routinely slim hips by making ordinary movements count. In stair climbing, be sure to keep your back straight and use your thigh muscles to lift the knees. Keep hip muscles down and under instead of allowing them to bustle rearward. Also, in picking something off the floor, don't stoop—bend your knees and keep those hip muscles well under and contract.

Now for a couple of specific exercises to restore tone to the muscles.

Lying on right side, legs together, left leg on top of right. Swing left leg briskly forward, then swing vigorously rearward, and h-o-l-d the movement on the back swing. Holding the contraction helps to increase muscle tone. Swing the leg forward again, knee straight, swing rearward again . . . and hold. You might prefer to swing through the routine and hold on alternate rearward swings. Reverse side and swing with right leg.

Finish with a leg circling exercise from this same position of lying on side. Brace palm of hand on floor for support. Raise the leg and make wide, slow circles, leading with the heel. Circle six times in one direction, and six in the opposite direction. Follow this by changing sides and circling with the opposite leg. Circling brings both inner and outer thigh muscles into the action.

Regular exercise in moderate amounts, whether it's walking or taking calisthenics, can improve your shape and your looks . . . and best of all, exercise enhances the feeling of well being.

Big Dream Kitchen Favorite Room For This Family Who Love Home

BY IDA BAILEY ALLEN

THIS month I found a dream kitchen in the home of one of our neighbors in New Jersey. It's a very large room in the house of the Courtney Seabrooks. An ell has a door leading to the terrace. The ell contains an old tavern table for family meals.

SUNNY AREA

The big kitchen is windowed on three walls. The sun streams in, lighting the polished paneled white pine walls with a glow. Yes, there's a fireplace and barbecue, raised so they're easy to use. An eight-burner electric counter-top range gives plenty of cooking space for large parties. As a super-convenience, there are two built-in eye-level ovens.

HANDY BLACKBOARD

A huge refrigerator-freezer stands next to the dining-room door. On one side of it, for every one to see, there's a plastic-type blackboard for reminder notes to the family, as Maedy Seabrook explained.

High and low cupboards of polished white pine are built-in wherever possible. The wall space above the cupboards that are rich panel from India, a Paisley cover that once was spread over a huge refectory table, a piece of art from Japan, family photographs . . . So little of all she

HUNG WITH UTENSILS

Also of interest is a long, waist-high table with an overhead rack, hung with copper-bottomed and other utensils for cooking. The floor is polished pine. Woven wool runners, placed here and there make standing easy. In a sunny corner, a comfortable pine rocking chair invites you to sit down.

"It's our favorite room," said the chic and charming Maedy Seabrook. "I love working in it with the family around. Often I make my orange biscuits for a between-times snack."

All measurements are level. Orange Biscuits: Combine 1 can frozen orange juice, 1/4 c. water, 2 tsp. each butter and sugar. Simmer 3 min. Spoon into 12 buttered shallow muffin pans. Prepare 1 recipe rich baking powder biscuit dough. Pat into an oblong 1/2 in. thick. Spread sparingly with room-soft butter; dust with sugar and cinnamon. Roll up, cut in 12 slices. Arrange in muffin pans. Bake 20 to 25 min. at 375°.

TOMORROW'S DINNER

Shredded Beef Salad Chiffonade

Braised Beef Jardiniere

Parslaid Potatoes

Half-Thawed Frozen Peaches

Coffee Tea Milk

Braised Veal Jardiniere: Rub a 4-5 lb. rolled, boned shoulder of veal with garlic salt. Brown in meat drippings.

Add a bouquet garni, 6 sliced peeled onions, 1 1/2 tsp. salt, 1/2 tsp. pepper, juice of half a lemon, and 1 tsp. brown powder. Pour in 1 1/2 c. hot water.

Cover. Simmer 3 hrs.

Serve sliced, surrounded with mixture of cooked frozen vegetables, combined with 1/4 lb. sliced, butter-sautéed fresh mushrooms. Serves 8 to 10.

TRICK OF THE CHEF

Use hot tea instead of water when braising veal.

Polish Prima Donna Opens Studio Here For Young And Older Folk

In a cozy little home on Berram St. lives a prima donna who once thrilled audiences in the musical centres of all Europe, and who also has given concerts all across this continent.

Daughter of an ancient Polish family, she has been—quote C. B. Piper, well known music critic who heard Zuta de Podoska in her recital in Toronto years ago: "... scrupulously trained in the arts that sometimes make aristocrats worth their salt—music, deportment, poetry, drama . . . she possesses undaunted resolution and a dynamic personality. One of her ambitions is to give young Canada a short cut to the culture that made for amenity in life before the war. . . ."

UNDAUNTED RESOLUTION
Madame Podoska needs "undaunted resolution" for she is utterly alone in the world, having lost all her family and virtually all of her possessions in Poland when war came there. Infinitesimally few are the treasures she cherishes now: a samovar, a rich panel from India, a Paisley cover that once was spread over a huge refectory table, a piece of art from Japan, family photographs . . . So little of all she

In short, she has been acclaimed wherever she has sung—from Vancouver to London, Eng., in her home-land and abroad; and her singing made a critic exclaim: "If all grand opera was as grand as Madame de Podoska makes it, then surely all the world would be grand opera-conscious, for the art of this gifted lady is delightfully convincing."

Motored To Calgary For Son's Wedding

Recently returned from a motor trip to Calgary where they attended the marriage of their son, Lawrence, to Miss Pauline Ytula, are Mr. and Mrs. Leo Poitras, who were accompanied to the Alberta city by their son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Armand Poitras.

The occasion offered an opportunity for a family reunion, as eight of their nine sons and daughters were present at the wedding. Above all, she is eager to give of her Italian Belcanto—a simplified, untalented professional guidance in voice technique, deportment, stage-presence—in short, all of the amenities called upon in public life, as well as children's good manners, courtesy and etiquette.

And when on November 15, the library presents a collection of antiques for all who wish to view them, Madame Neville de Podoska's treasures are expected to be included.

Orioles Last Tilt Staged Across The Festive Board

By GEORGE INGLIS
(Courier Sports Editor)

The Kelowna Orioles wound up this year's spectacular baseball season with a gorging orgy at the Canadian Legion from which there was no need for anyone to totter away hungry.

Prepared by the loving hands of Mrs. Santos Giordano, who had labored from six in the morning whipping it up, the liberal servings of Italian spaghetti, smothered in spicy sauce, tripped up the unwary into filling themselves up and groaning when the heaping platters of golden chicken made their appearance.

There wasn't a stouter trencherman in the house, either, than the guy who calls the balls and strikes for the league—umpire Larry Schlosser. He got down to picky eating after devouring several platters of the steaming fowl, but he still gave the gals a dirty look when they started cleaning the tables.

The man who took most advantage of the situation was Alderman Dick Parkinson, who waited until the mayor was replete with food, then threw a few gentle hints to him about the need for a big parks appropriation next year, to handle all the improvements now under way.

The luckiest guy in the house was catcher Johnny Culos, whose comely twin sisters were helping the rest of the women's auxiliary with the serving. The pint-sized back stop never wanted for service, and even picked up an award for being the "most valuable player in a single game."

One of the proudest gals in the house was Mrs. Frank Schaefer, mother of the largest and most athletic brood in the Orchard City. An ardent ball fan and tireless worker with the women's auxiliary, she watched her son Les "Skinny" Schaefer, step up to receive the "most valuable player" award from Frank Keovil, for the second time in succession. She also watched both Al and Les receive scrolls commemorating their achievement in playing on the championship club.

All in all, it was a big night.

OUTLOOK NEVER BETTER

The brightest part of the after-dinner speeches, which were mostly brimming over with congratulations and thanks, was the word-picture given by Alderman Dick on the state of things to come down at the north-end recreation park.

He promised work on the stands and dugouts in the senior ball park, which is all that is needed to make the Elks Stadium the finest in the circuit, bar none.

Both Little League and the softball leagues will have their new home this next season, he said, with stands and spanking new diamonds.

In the future, he promised, there will be shower and toilet accommodations, and the grounds will be the "finest park in B.C."

Alderman Parkinson has a way of making things like that come true, too. A tireless worker for the good of the city, he never misses a beat when it comes to parks or playgrounds in the city that abounds with them now.

An athlete of many years standing in the city himself, Dick was speaking from the heart when he extolled the job done by Hank Tostenson in bringing the ball club up to the standard of this year's championship club.

A guy who likes getting things done himself, he knew what he was talking about, also, when he gave a great deal of the credit for the club's prosperity this year to a guy he termed a "worry wart" with a purpose—team manager Blair Peters.

He deftly warned Mayor Ladd, glassy-eyed and replete with fine food, that he would be wanting plenty of money next budget.

He never misses a trick, that man.

A SHRINKING VIOLET

The guy who was happiest about the whole affair was the most backward about saying much about it, but coach Hank Tostenson never believes in using two words where one will do, unless you run across him in a dressing room just after giving an indifferent performance.

An athlete who gives every ounce of energy and ability that is within him every time he steps into the forum, he also expects the same from anyone who plays for him.

He refused to take credit for the Orioles showing, saying that it was guys like Eddie Kiehliski, with his clutch-hitting and "that big home run," that had made the win possible.

He grew almost lyrical as he spoke of the entire club, who had offered to leave their shares of the $1,000 tournament money in the club kitty, to be used for the furtherance of baseball as a sport in the Orchard City. This is one of Hank's pet projects in life, the promotion of sports for youngsters.

The money itself, he said, was in large part earned by the powerful heaves made by Billy Martino from the centre field to home plate on more than one occasion.

In fact, he gave credit to just about everybody but himself.

NEW ERA

One of the happiest fellows about the Orioles' success was a guy who rooting heartily for them to lose whenever they faced the Oliver OCB's—league president Leo McKinnon of Oliver.

Never much of a ball player himself, Leo is a guy with an all-consuming love for the game, a trait that is shared by most of his neighbors in the ball-crazy little town south by the border.

In spite of having to swallow the bitter pill of having their club beaten after the entire community had practically worked the clock round all summer building one of the strongest clubs in the league, he was happy about Kelowna winning the marbles.

It was time, he said, that the people here had a good ball club, one which would be of as high playing calibre as they were in audience-calibre.

He was happy, he said, to see that Kelowna had finally come up into the baseball picture, and felt it would do the world of good for the sport in the valley. He expressed the hope that the league would be administered from Kelowna this year.

He threw a big bouquet at the club's executive, which was the biggest single factor in the successes, the Orioles had achieved both on and off the field, aside from the players themselves.

Master of ceremonies Bob Hall came in for some of the bouquets too, for his faithful work at the public address mike throughout the season, and his play-by-play broadcast of the final games in the series.

It all added up to a new era for Kelowna, he said in closing.

Pacific Coast Ball League Debate Resumes

DENVER (AP)—President, Ed Doherty of the American Association, says he has called a special meeting of the class AAA baseball league directors in Chicago Sunday.

Doherty returned to Denver from a meeting in New York with Commissioner Ford Frick to study realignment of the Pacific Coast league which has lost San Francisco and Los Angeles to the National League.

The PCL has been eying Denver but Doherty said: "they'll have a tough time trying to get Denver out of my league." Denver has been a leader in minor league attendance.

Doherty said the Chicago meeting would be devoted to looking over the 1958 schedule "and checking the status of Louisville."

Louisville lost out in an effort to get a working agreement with the Philadelphia Phillies.

ANOTHER VAIN ATTEMPT

Inept puck handling around the goal, along with a heap of bad luck spelt defeat for the Packers last night in the form of a 4-1 drubbing at the hands of the Vernon Canadians. The photo shows Mike Durban digging hard in another vain attempt to blink the red light. This is a good example of Hal Gordon's iron goal-keeping as time after time he quashed Packer efforts. Newly acquired Vernon defenceman, Bud Laidler, a former Packer man, can be seen helping out.

Chiefs Set Vees Tie League Lead

PENTICTON (CP)—Backed by the solid netminding of Jim Shirley, Kamloops Chiefs defeated Penticton V's 4-1 in an Okanagan Senior Hockey League game here Friday night before 2,000 fans.

Kamloops took a 2-0 lead in the first period, both teams went scoreless in the second and the Chiefs outscored V's 2-1 in the final frame.

Defenceman Kernaghan opened the scoring at 3:52 with a slider from the blue which goalie George Wood didn't see until too late.

Chiefs went two up at the 4:24 mark when Bill Hryciuk took a pink-wide pass from Johnny Millard and beat Wood with a shoulder-high angle shot from the right side.

V's came up with several dangerous scoring thrusts in the second session but Shirley held them at bay.

The final period was only 46 seconds old when Bill Warwick connected from a scramble in front of the V's net to give Chiefs a 3-0 bulge.

Defenceman Jack Taggart put the V's on the scoreboard at 6:58 slapping in a loose puck after Shirley had kicked out three shots in succession.

Bill Hryciuk scored his second goal of the game at 8:48 to round out the scoring. The shifty right-winger took a pass from playing coach Bob Dawes and used a Penticton defenceman to screen a high shot from Woods view.

Kamloops took six of the 11 penalties handed out in the rugged but cleanly played game.

SUMMARY
First period—1. Kamloops, Kernaghan (Millard, Hryciuk) 3:52; 2. Kamloops, Hryciuk (Millard) 4:24. Penalties: B. Warwick :58 and 11:01, Diachuk 16:47.

Second period—scoring, none. Penalties, Touzin 0:45, Dykstra 4:35, D. Warwick 4:45, Slater 8:50.

Third period—3. Kamloops, B. Warwick (Marquess) 0:46; 4. Penticton, Slater (Harper) 6:58; 5. Kamloops, Hryciuk (Dawes) 8:48. Penalties: Hinchberger 2:42, Evans 14:50, Bathgate 14:50, B. Warwick 19:23.

TRACK, FIELD TRIALS
Fred Harding of Toronto, representing the central Ontario branch of the AAU and the man who first outlined the proposal to the AAU, said the proposed committee would have the duty of protecting the interests of the amateur sport governing body.

The committee would ensure that the contributor's advertising use of the program's kept within bounds desired by the amateurs.

Earlier, the AAU decided that the senior men's and women's track and field trials—plum of the preliminaries for the 1958 British Empire Games in Wales will be held in Saskatoon next June 20-21.

The choice was made with more than 75 per cent of the ballots cast on the first round of voting. The other contenders were British Columbia, which wanted the track and field events to help mark its centennial year, and the Quebec branch which wanted the events for the Canadian Legion sports layout at St. Lambert.

Rookie-Of-Year Gives Credit To Dad, Stengel
MILWAUKEE (AP)—Tony Kubek of the New York Yankees says his dad and Yankee manager Casey Stengel were responsible for his winning the 1957 honor as American League rookie-of-the-year.

The 22-year-old Milwaukeean returned from a hunting trip Friday and learned for the first time that members of the Baseball Writers' Association had chosen him their unanimous choice for the honor.

Kubek said his dad, Tony, Sr., an outfielder with the Milwaukee Brewers of the American Association, played a big role in his success "because he kept me in a baseball atmosphere from the time I was able to walk."

He said that Stengel helped him when the manager "had enough confidence in me to let me play all the positions."

Sharing rookie-of-the-year honors with Kubek was Jack Sanford of Philadelphia Phillies who was voted National League rookie.

Canucks Are Out of Cellar

A costly first-period lapse spelled defeat for the Packers last night, and gave the cellar-dwelling Vernon Canadians a 4-1 victory and the chance to climb into a third place tie with Penticton Vees.

The Packers shook the bad first period out of their systems, and came back fighting, but they were unable to crack the armor of goalie Hal Gordon in the Vernon nets for more than one goal. Playing with sensational luck and skill, Gordon was helped by inept puck handling by the Packers around the nets, as they missed chance after chance that were labelled "goal."

TWO CHANGES
Coach George Agar's boys, with two changes in the line-up, showed that they may be down for the moment, but no club is able to take it easy for five seconds with them, or they are in trouble.

Agar had Bud Laidler, Kelowna boy and former Packer, in strip, covering off a defence spot vacated by Ron Morgan, cut from the club.

Vernon home-brew, Tony Spelly, was working on the forward line, in the place recently vacated by Con Madigan.

Coach Jack O'Reilly had Don Hamilton working his second try-out game with the club, and the young boy wasn't too well supported in the first ten minutes of play.

From the first face-off, the puck went into the Packer territory and Harry Smith passed it across to Pat Coburn, whose clearing pass went onto Odie Lowe's stick, and the smoothie fired it low, under Hamilton's catching hand at the 11 seconds mark.

A minute later, with the Packers still disorganized and clearing badly, Lowe flipped one over to Frank King, who deflected it into the open side of the net.

The Packers tightened up slightly, but Merv Bidoski rifled one by Andy McCallum, who went down to make the block, and it went in on Hamilton's short side.

The Packers came back in the second frame and took over the play, but their work in front of the goal still didn't have the clicking power necessary to light the light more than once.

It was Ray Powell, the smooth centre who set up more plays during the night than could be counted on both hands, who triggered the puck in when defence man Tom Stecyk had one of his seldom lapses and cleared onto his stick.

In the final frame, the Packers pressed hard, and it began to look like they would make the grade, especially with the digging of all three lines.

King upset the apple cart, however, when he got the big insurance marker at the seven minute mark, breaking in fast to take Lowe's pass and flip it in high.

The Packers outshot the Canadians 31-25 in the game.

Stampeders Hand Canucks First Defeat

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Calgary Stampeders may well be the most confused hockey team in the country today.

The Western Hockey League cowboys did in two nights what the rest of the league had failed to do all season: they lost to Victoria Cougars and defeated the Vancouver Canucks.

Victoria had nine losses in as many games until they beat the Stampeders Thursday.

Friday Calgary made the paradox complete, by beating the Canucks 5-3 before a crowd of 5,500 on the coast. The loss was the first for Vancouver in 10 games.

The only other league action saw New Westminster edge Seattle 4-3. Royals are now within three points of the Canucks in the coast standings. Ollie Dohoy accounted for two New Westminster goals.

Seattle now trails second-place New Westminster by five points and leads Victoria by seven. The Cougars will be after their second win when they meet Seattle in Victoria tonight.

In other games the Stampeders play the Royals and Edmonton Flyers meet the Saskatoon-St. Paul.

A win by either Calgary or Edmonton will put them in first place on the prairie, one point ahead of Winnipeg Warriors. Neither the Warriors nor Vancouver play tonight.

C-FU BEATS ALBERNI
PORT ALBERNI (CP)—Vancouver's C-Fu defeated Alberni Athletics 57-52 in a tight-checking senior A basketball game here Friday night. C-Fu led 31-30 at the half.

MANY NATIONS AT BAPTIST MEET

Attending the second continental assembly of the North American Baptist Women's Union in Toronto, Mrs. Ayako Hino, at left, of Tokyo, and Mrs. Ester Diaz of Rio de Janeiro heard Dr. T. F. Adams say "Baptist women have taken the lead in establishing world fellowship with their zeal for missionary work, devotion to the church and in the building of Christian homes and families."

AT TORONTO CONVENTION

Baptist Women's Zealous World Leadership Lauded

TORONTO (CP) — A United States church official says Baptist women have taken the lead in establishing world fellowship with their zeal for missionary work, devotion to the church and in the building of Christian homes and families.

Dr. Theodore F. Adams of Richmond, Va., president of the Baptist World Alliance, told the second continental assembly of the North American Baptist Women's Union of the BWA, that "it is every woman's duty to see that young people catch this spirit of fellowship."

Mrs. John Diefenbaker, the prime minister's wife and daughter of a Baptist minister, said: "Today we live in the shadow of a dreadful force that can be used for the bad of the world."

"We should pray that we may be blessed during this three-day assembly to go home warmed and strengthened to do even better."

Other addresses were given by Mrs. C. P. Fell, president of the Baptists Women's Missionary Society, Ontario and Quebec; Mrs. P. K. Hamby, president of the Women's Inter-Church Council of Canada; and Dr. Emylin Davies, pastor of Toronto's Yorkminster Baptist Church.

Mrs. J. M. Ayorinde of Ede, Nigeria, chairman of the Baptist Women's Union of Africa said the main problem here was education for women. Mrs. Ayorinde suggested more trained men and women missionaries be sent from North America.

EDMONTON SPEAKER Mrs. W. C. Smalley of Edmonton, president of the Women's Missionary Auxiliary of the Baptist Union of Western Canada, said India's doors are open to Canadian missionaries.

"The Hindus in the Baptist mission area are showing an unprecedented interest in the gospel."

She said missionaries must be sent from Canada "to assume full responsibility for the evangelization of this area."

BNAWU Adopts New Constitution

TORONTO (CP)—Church history was made when a finished constitution was adopted by the Baptist North American Women's Union at their second continental assembly here this week.

The aim of the NAWU is to promote a closer relationship between Baptist women in North America and in other parts of the world and to help broaden their scope for Christian service.

Changes were made in the constitution at Columbus, Ohio, in 1953, and following the 1955 congress of the Baptist World Alliance.

Officers of the NAWU are: President, Mrs. M. B. Hodge, Portland, Ore.; secretary, Mrs. W. C. Smalley, Edmonton; treasurer, Mrs. R. L. Mathis, Waco, Texas.

The executive committee will be composed of unit officers, the presidents of each of the 10 co-operating organizations, and North American women members of the BWA's executive committee.

Mrs. Edgar Bates, dean of women, McMaster University, and vice-president of the BWAC, treasurer of the women's department of the BWAC and immediate past-president of the NAWU, urged all Baptist women to overlook petty differences because the great truths they hold in common unite them.

BAPTIST LEADER

Mrs. John Diefenbaker, wife of the Prime Minister and daughter of a Baptist minister, addressed the Baptist women's assembly.

SUNDAY LESSON

Each One Has Some Talent To Be Used In God's Work

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

Scripture—I Corinthians 12-14. DR. WILBUR M. SMITH states that the first chapter listed in today's lesson is one of the most important in all the New Testament. I agree with him. He suggests too that the younger classes and the older ones too, introduce it by the teachers allowing the pupils to name as many different types of workers in their own church as they can think of.

First would be the preachers, then the organizer of the Sunday school, next the teachers, the church treasurer, the organist, choir singers, elders, deacons, trustees and church visitors. Each does his or her best to make a well rounded church organization.

I would suggest, too, for the younger members of the class, those in primary schools, that they list the talents, or gifts of members of their own schools.

There are children who have special gifts for arithmetic; others who excel in reading, writing, spelling, etc.

Each of the children in one room has something that distinguishes him or her from the others. If it is not in the school's curriculum, these might be good-nature, thoughtfulness of others, obedience to the school rules, etc.

Paul knew the people of the Corinthian church well, and he points out their diversified gifts and talents, but all should have the same spirit, he wrote, for God is the same "which worketh all in all."

There were people in the church who had wisdom; others with knowledge; another faith in the Spirit. Another might have the gift of healing; another of working miracles; still another the gift of prophecy. Others had diverse kinds of tongues, and others who could interpret these mysterious tongues. "But all these worketh that one and the same Spirit, dividing to every man severally as he will."

Then Paul likens the church to our bodies, which are made of many parts, each being necessary to all the others, but continuing to be one body, in which if one part suffers, the whole suffers.

body is in pain. So should the church of God be. God has set some in the church for one purpose, "apostles, secondary prophets, teachers and others."

We cannot all be like these others, but we can all work together for Christ by doing the best we can with our own gifts, not coveting those of others.

In the 13th chapter, Paul reminds us of the importance of love in all our lives, but we have had that chapter in a previous lesson, so cannot dwell on it here, only to be reminded once again how important love is in all our activities throughout our lives.

"Follow charity (love), and desire after spiritual gifts," is the first verse of Chapter 14 of this epistle and our memory verse.

Paul likens words spoken—not only to be understood but in words easily understood—to musical instruments. He says, "And even things without life giving sound, whether pipe or harp, except they give a distinction in the sounds, how shall it be known what is piped or harped?"

"For if the trumpet give an uncertain sound, who shall prepare himself to the battle? So likewise ye, except ye utter by the tongue words easy to be understood, how shall it be known what is spoken?"

"God is not the author of confusion, but of peace, as in all churches of the saints," Paul wrote.

"We cannot all have the best gifts," wrote W. E. Vine. "We can seek God's grace and help, desire them and by prayer and humble obedience to His will and the leading of the Spirit, and by placing ourselves at His disposal, being content with what He gives us or withholds, we shall find that He will use us for His glory."

Let all the pupils, young and older, be urged to follow Mr. Vine's advice, and see what we can do for our church and in our everyday lives, try to help bring the Kingdom of God nearer.

Catholics Hail Growing Spiritual Retreat Trend

By JOSEPH DUPUIS

Canadian Press Staff Writer

HALIFAX (CP)—Roman Catholic leaders in the Maritime provinces see the fast-growing retreat movement as the spiritual uplift needed in the present-day world.

Archbishop J. G. Berry of Halifax, says more people are making retreats today because "they see so many things they formerly could rely upon crashing down."

"In this modern-day rush people are trembling with the thought they are not giving sufficient time to things of God," he said. Retreats provide an answer by appealing to the "development of holiness of laymen in themselves."

Rev. E. V. Sweeney of Dartmouth, N.S., in charge of the retreat movement in Nova Scotia, calls the trend a "seminar of Christian action."

He sees retreats as a "spiritual H-bomb of religious revival."

FILL ACCOMMODATION Rev. Theophane Murphy of Our Lady of Atonement Retreat House at Gardiner Mines, N.S., had more participants this year than he could accommodate. He says "in two years, it will be necessary to make reservations two weeks ahead of time."

At Bouctouche, N. B., Rev. Remi Bellemare, director of the Villa Saint-Joseph retreat house says the number making retreats this year has nearly tripled from the 2,421 in 1956.

So great has been the swell in interest that Archbishop Berry announced in July plans to build Halifax's first retreat house by 1959. Nova Scotia has three retreat houses, New Brunswick four.

In Saint John, N.B., Rev. R. J. Riley is establishing a retreat league and hopes for 6,000 members. More than 1,000 made closed retreats at Father Riley's Villa Madonna retreat house in 1956. He says that number has doubled already this year.

BIG INCREASE Roughly 15,000 Maritimers made about 400 closed retreats in seven retreat houses, universities and convents last year. A survey of retreat directors indicate at least half as many more will go on retreat this year. And the increase is expected to continue.

What is a retreat? Rev. A. L. Meloche of Coleville, Ont., guest at a recent Atlantic retreat workshop in Halifax, summed it up: "During a parish mission the people come together for morning mass and evening instruction. At a parish retreat, they come to rest, pray and attend exercises throughout the day, take meals and then go home to sleep. This is called an open retreat."

"A closed retreat is one where the group comes together and stays two or three days for periods of meditation, prayer and lectures."

Fifty New Brunswick women teachers attended one weekend retreat at Bathurst, N.B. "The silence is wonderful and we all get so much rest and time for thought," said one.

VISIBILITY 20 FEET MAPLE RIDGE (CP) — Visibility was cut to 20 feet in low-lying areas of Maple Ridge as the municipality experienced the worst fog of the season Thursday evening. United Churchman Pursues Northern Rhodesian Mission

MONTREAL (CP) — Rev. Manitoba settlement with his Charles R. Catto is pursuing a missionary career in extreme temperatures.

He left Montreal with his 23-year-old wife and two children recently to start work in Northern Rhodesia after three years serving in Northern Manitoba.

"I don't suppose it will be too different except for the temperatures," he said. "African natives and Canadian Indians have the same problems of adjustment to new situation."

Ordained three years ago by the United Church of Canada, Mr. Catto's first posting was at God's Lake, 350 miles northeast of Winnipeg. A former student at the University of Toronto, he married shortly after and spent his honeymoon at the northern

"It was a thrill and a challenge to both of us," she said. "The work there was among the Cree Indians and it meant learning a new series of script symbols as well as a new language."

"We have the same prospects facing us now and it's just as challenging. We'll be there five years so it should be just as interesting."

To the new post at Kitwe in Northern Rhodesia's copper belt, the couple took with them three sets of mocassins, a beaded picture and leather doll—gifts of their Cree congregation.

The picture and doll were given to the couple's children, Danny, 2, and Linda Jean, two months,

OREGONIAN NAMED PRESIDENT OF BAPTIST WOMEN'S UNION

OREGONIAN NAMED—2-col box Church page

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. M. B. Hodge of Portland, Ore., was re-elected president of the North American Baptist Women's Union at the closing session of the organization's second continental assembly.

Mrs. W. C. Smalley, of Edmonton, secretary, and Mrs. R. L. Mathis of Waco, Tex., treasurer, were also re-elected to five-year terms.

Mrs. J. M. Ayorinde of Ede, Nigeria, chairman of the Baptist Women's Union of Africa, told the delegates that true Christian fellowship banishes fear, shows no favoritism and condones no racial prejudice.

Japanese Send Missionaries To Canadians

Ever since Church Union in 1925 the United Church of Canada has been sending Canadian missionaries to Japan.

Today, for the first time in history, Japan is sending to Canada missionaries to serve the United Church of Canada.

Two Japanese ministers have already arrived in Canada as missionaries to the Japanese Canadian community.

The first Japanese missionary is Mr. Tadashi Mitsui, 25 years of age, married, no children. Mr. Mitsui is a 1950 graduate from the Nishi Tokyo metropolitan high school; and in 1956 he graduated with a B.D. from the Tokyo Union Theological Seminary. Mr. Mitsui is the son of a minister of the United Church of Christ in Japan. He has done extensive work on youth caravans and has served also as assistant pastor of Kamato Church.

AT WORK NOW Mr. Mitsui is already at work among the Japanese in Vancouver. His area takes in Vancouver and New Westminster and the Fraser Valley. The main work is among the Nisei and Issei in Vancouver. There is a smaller group in New Westminster.

The Japanese in the Fraser Valley are in isolated groups. The ministry to these latter consists of pastoral visitation and cottage meetings.

The second Japanese missionary to Canada is Mr. Nozomu Furuya. Mr. Furuya was educated at the Jiyugakuen High School and graduated with the B.D. degree from Tokyo Union Theological Seminary, in 1954. He is 28 years of age and single. He is also the son of a minister of the United Church of Christ in Japan. He served the Inatori church first as an assistant and later as pastor.

Both Mr. Mitsui and Mr. Furuya speak English. They will be serving the Nisei (second generation). The United Church has a responsibility to serve the Nisei who have services in both Japanese and English.

Negotiations with the United Church of Christ in Japan were assisted by Rev. E. F. Carey of the United Church Overseas Mission Board. Mr. Carey interviewed these men personally and obtained recommendations from reliable sources. He spent hours with the Canadian Immigration authorities and shipping companies to arrange proper documentation and passage.

The Board of Home Missions under which these two missionaries will serve, also announced today that Rev. Gordon S. Inai, a graduate in Engineering of the University of British Columbia, has decided to enter the ministry of The United Church and will serve Japanese families in Montreal.

PLAN ATOMIC TANKER PARIS (Reuters)—The government has announced plans for the construction of an atomic powered prototype tanker. They said the vessel will be 40,000 tons and have 40,000 horsepower.

Mixed Drinking

EDMONTON (CP)—Premier E. C. Manning sketched his government's latest action on two key issues in Alberta—liquor outlets and oil and gas markets.

First, he said regulations are being prepared for establishment of mixed drinking in Calgary and Edmonton beer parlors. He added that liquor act amendments dealing with new types of liquor outlets will be brought before the legislature session opening in February.

On oil, Mr. Manning said Prime Minister Diefenbaker has agreed to co-operate in finding a solution to dwindling markets for Western Canada oil.

Suggestion That

PM Make Russian

Tour Declined

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker today declined an informal suggestion by Russia's Nikita Khrushchev that the Canadian leader visit Moscow for a talk.

The invitation was extended by the Communist leader in recent replies to a series of questions submitted through the Soviet Embassy here by Peter Dempson, Ottawa correspondent of the Toronto Telegram.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is LONG FELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

The bidding:
North East South West
1♣ Pass 1♥ Pass
2♣ Pass 2♥ Pass

Opening lead—queen of clubs. South's leap to the slam was undoubtedly an ambitious venture. Although he had every right to suspect there might be a slam, considering his partner's opening bid and immediate spade raise, it would have been more prudent to probe the situation and learn whether North had any extra values to show beyond his two bids.

Thus, South might have cue-bid his heart and diamond aces to test the slam possibilities. If North continued to respond in spades in minimum terms, slam ideas would have to be abandoned. But if North cooperated in any positive manner to show additional values beyond those he had already shown, the slam could then be undertaken.

When dummy first came down, prospects for making the slam were rather bleak. There was a sure trump loser to begin with, and a diamond and club loser also to contend with. One loser could be discarded on dummy's third heart, but not the other.

There was, however, a legitimate chance to make the hand which South put into effect. The club lead was taken with the king and a trump played to the ace.

Three rounds of hearts enabled South to dispose of his losing club. The ace of clubs was then cashed and followed with a club ruff. When it turned out fortunately that the adverse clubs were divided 3-3, dummy's nine became an established trick.

Declarer exited with a trump and the slam was now assured regardless of which defender won the trick or what was returned. The losing diamond could be discarded on dummy's club winner.

Of course, it was a lucky slam for South to make, and maybe our criticism of his bidding is out of order in view of the result.

Bad contracts sometimes present a good opportunity for good play. The key play was made by South when he discarded the club, and not the diamond loser, on the third heart. This paved the way to the establishment of a club trick and the fulfillment of the slam.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

The Stars Say

FOR TOMORROW
Tendencies toward restlessness may prevail now. But if you cannot gratify a desire for change, don't become moody or upset. Seek some "different form of diversion, if only for a few hours. It will change your outlook completely.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY
If tomorrow is your birthday, your horoscope indicates that it would be advisable to take advantage of all opportunities to advance between now and the end of December, since the beginning of January shows an up-trend in both job and financial matters if you've made the most of chances to progress. Remember always that, no matter how stimulating the planetary aspects, you must cooperate in order to profit by them.

Happy domestic and social relationships should enliven most of this new year in life, but the period between June and September should be especially interesting.

A child born on this day will be extremely self-reliant and unusually loyal to family and friends.

THE DAY AFTER TOMORROW
Planetary emphasis will be on family matters and social affairs on Monday. If homemaking is your career, you should find this an excellent period in which to shop for furniture, household appliances and clothes; also to make plans for entertaining.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY
If Monday is your birthday, your horoscope indicates a productive year, but a great deal will depend upon your relationships with others—especially during the next two months; also in February and March. Where personal matters are concerned, romance and social activities will be favored from late June through September, and domestic concerns will be under fine influences for most of the year ahead.

Ingenuity and tact with superiors will pay off during the latter part of this month, and early December gives promise of increased personal prestige. Be careful if signing documents of any kind next April.

A child born on this day will be capable, trustworthy and extremely diligent.

AT OYAMA
Urge Building New School At Winfield

OYAMA—The ratepayers annual school meeting was held here. School board representatives were pleased to see a good attendance. Guest speakers were Secretary Fred Macklin, Inspector G. Johnston, and trustee A. G. Pollard. Highlight of the meeting was Inspector Johnston's report regarding the future high school situation as it affects the Oyama area. By a show of hands the meeting was strongly in favor of the proposed high school in Winfield.

Mrs. G. A. Potheary and H. B. Thomson were elected representatives for the ensuing year.

PAY MOVING COSTS

Alcan Offers To Purchase Laid-Off Workers' Houses

KITIMAT, B.C. (CP)—The Aluminum Company of Canada says it will help 1,700 workers laid-off by its construction subsidiary by paying part of the cost of their move out of Kitimat and by buying their houses.

Saguway-Kitimat Construction Company, which has laid-off the workers because of declining markets, says married personnel moving out will be paid "an amount equal to that paid to assist them to move into Kitimat."

It says camp employees will be returned to the point of recruitment at the company's expense.

A community action committee formed to assist the laid-off workers said today Alcan also has undertaken to buy houses built here by laid-off employees, providing these conform to National Housing Act specifications.

The company has denied a statement of the committee that it is reluctant to supply power to other industry. It says it would "welcome industry to come here and use our power."

The committee says a finance company has made arrangements

CAMERA QUERIES

By IRVING GORBY

This column's approach is simple: to help you see the picture possibilities that exist all around you, and then to help you make the most of these possibilities, through wise choice of viewpoint, lighting, good subject arrangement, and correct operation of your camera. So let's get down to work.

Last week we started a series of "Do's and Don'ts" and we will continue on this week with a few more tips.

TILTED CAMERA: The annoying result of having the subjects in the picture tipped on a crazy angle is usually the end product of not observing carefully enough through the view finder, right up to the moment of release. Keep your eye on the subject, through the viewfinder until after the shutter click! This should prove to be a sure-fire remedy.

CAMERA MOVEMENT: This easily avoidable snap speller happens when you "punch" the shutter release. The whole picture is usually blurred. With a great many box-camera users, an average of 50 per cent of snaps taken are blurred. Always stand steady, hold your breath, and release the shutter gently. Don't worry, your subject won't run away.

There is one big exception to this rule, and that is PANORAMING. Normally, you hold your camera still during exposure—or you get a badly blurred picture. But, suppose, as that automobile went by, you had swung the camera in unison with it, keeping the car centered in the finder? In that event, both car and camera would have been standing still in relation to each other—and if you'd released smoothly "in stride," you'd have a sharp picture. This technique is known as panoramizing. It works beautifully with speeding automobiles, speedboats, and motorcycles; the vehicle stays sharp, but the background streaks out into a mile-a-minute blur, with a terrific effect of speed. Remember that you must not pause as you trip the shutter.

SUBJECT OUT OF FOCUS: This type of boo-boo makes pictures almost as hard to look at as camera movement. With simple cameras, it happens when you bring the camera too near the subject. For real close-ups with such cameras, put on an inexpensive close-up lens, and then step up to 3 feet away from your subject. Otherwise, 6 feet is about your limit.

That should be about enough theory to tuck under your pillow, and sleep on for a week. More practically—it should be put into use!

In case all of you cat lovers didn't know it, this week is National Cat Week. How's chances of dragging the pussy from under the stove, and putting the camera into use. Cats are about the easiest animals to dress-up and pose for human interest shots. The photo below didn't take much set-
